Ways to Cut Government Spending

The impact of Prop. 13 has been largely deferred by the state legislators and the governor for one year by supplying for one year $5 billion of surplus funds to local governments and schools.

According to CAL-TAX NEWS, the California Taxpayers' Assn. newsletter, it is a near certainty that no such amount of surplus will be available next year and that the $7 billion loss in local government will continue to grow.

The tax burden will shift to non-property areas such as sales and income tax. Without some sort of reasonable limit on state and local government, Californians will face an actual enlargement of the total tax burden over the next few years says CTA.

The solution to that problem, obviously, is to cut government spending.

So CTA came up with 75 ways to cut costs in California government. In this column we'll touch on about 10 with more later if there is a need.

Cut Exotic College Classes

The community college curriculum should be returned to basic education and other course offerings should be on a full-tuition or fee basis.

Clamp Down on State Consultants

The state should require every proposal to hire an outside private consultant to be approved in advance by the Dept. of Finance. Presently the department becomes involved only if the dollars involved amount to more than a rate of $17,000 annually.

Eliminate Government Disability Windfall

Amend Labor Code to remove what has become a virtual right for disability recipients: the receipt of one year of salary before commencement of regular disability rights.

Prohibit Disability in Lieu of Retirement Benefits

Disability benefits should be limited to no more than ordinary retirement benefits, projected to normal retirement age, to eliminate the incentive to apply for a lifetime award of disability benefits which could be greater than ordinary retirement stipends.

Lengthen Service

State and local governments should increase the minimum public retirement age to 60 and offer safety members non-safety employment in lieu of deferred retirement.

Cut Legislative Staff

The 120-member Legislature now employs 1,882, up 75 percent over the past 10 years. Additionally, generous staff pay levels have easily outpaced inflation during the same 10 year period, putting today's monthly Assembly, Senate and Joint Committee payroll beyond the $2 million mark.

The Legislature can cut personnel costs, particularly with respect to joint committee staff, partisan operatives, and partisan researchers, without sacrificing the quality of legislative services.

Tighten Up on Telephone Use

State government should tighten up on the personal use of the state's long-distance telephone network by requiring each department to make a monthly audit of all long-distance calls from a randomly selected percentage of its telephone.

Abandon the State Teachers Retirement System Disability Program

Teachers and districts should be permitted to contract privately for disability insurance. Such a change would save approximately $90,000 a year and enable districts and employees to secure minimum adequate coverage for fewer out-of-pocket dollars.

Tighten Workers' Compensation for Police and Firemen

Under provisions of the Labor Code, retired public safety employees who suffer heart ailment, tuberculosis, hernia or cumulative trauma within 5 years of service are awarded special benefits on the presumption that such infirmities are job-related. No other job classes enjoy such special treatment. The program should be removed.

Cut Legislative Mailing Costs

Last year legislators spent $3.2 million sending newsletters to constituents. In the 80 member Assembly, where 1977 costs ran $1.9 million, legislators are allowed to make 5 district-wide non-computerized newsletters each 2-year period.

In the 40 member Senate where costs ran close to $1.3 million, legislators may make 2 district-wide computerized newsletter mailings each year. The cost will rise now because of higher postage rates. Newsletter costs could be cut in half by limiting district-wide mailing to one a year.

Wheelchair Barriers Outlawed In 5% of New Apartment Units

The State Commission of Housing and Community Development has adopted regulations establishing, for the first time in California, the right of the physically handicapped to barrier-free housing.

By unanimous vote, 7 members of the Commission voted to require builders of new apartment houses containing 10 or more units to make at least 5 per cent of all units accessible to people in wheelchairs. Where the application of the above percentage results in a fraction, the next higher whole number of units is required.

Such units must: (1) be accessible by walkways and ramps at least 42" wide, (2) have thresholds no more than 1/2" thick, (3) have doorways at least 30" wide, (4) have hallways at least 36" wide, (5) have at least 32" clearance in front of all cabinets and appliances, (6) have at least 42" clearance in front of all bathroom fixtures.

"These regulations should provide about 5000 new apartments accessible to wheelchair people each year" said Commission Chairman Myron Muskovitz. "We know that is not enough, but it is a good start. One of our main concerns is the cost of making these units accessible."

"We received rough estimates that these costs would require rent increases ranging from $6 to $42 per month. After these regulations have been in effect for awhile, we will conduct some cost studies to see much much these requirements really cost. If the costs are low enough, we will expand our regulations to require more housing to meet these requirements."

State Agents Aid Seniors

State representatives will be available August 17, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Wells Park, 1153 Madison Ave., El Cajon, to help senior citizens with their Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance or Senior Citizens Rent assistance claim forms.

Claimants 62 years of age or older should bring all pertinent records such as their 1977-78 property tax bill, income records, and forms received in the mail from the Franchise Tax Board.

The number is (800) 852-5711.

Racquetball Among Offerings of LG Recreation Dept.

Racquetball and ping-pong tournaments are among the free summer activities scheduled for the remainder of August at the Lemon Grove Recreation Department's recreation center, open 1:30 through 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at Golden Avenue Elementary School.

Scheduled at the center are a racquetball tournament tomorrow (sign-ups now being taken); ping-pong tournament next Tuesday (sign-ups now being taken); "Frisbee Day" next Friday, Aug. 18 and "Olympics Day" (ages 6 through 13) Friday, Aug. 25.

A free picnic at Flinn Springs County Park is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 26.

Gymnastics are offered at 3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and free film showings at 3:45 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays. More information at 462-4682.

Cuyamaca College Opens Doors to LG SV Residents

Applications for registration are now accepted at the new Cuyamaca College campus, the second college in the Grossmont Community College District.

The school at 2950 Jamacha rd., 5 miles east of freeway 94, is available on a tuition-free basis to all residents of the Grossmont Community College District who are high school graduates or 18 years of age. Lemon Grove, Spring Valley and Casa de Oro fall within the college district's boundaries.

Adult Dance Classes On L.M. P&R Schedule

Beginners round dance classes starting in September has been scheduled by the L.M. Rec. Dept. A class for adults will begin September 11 in the Adult Recreation Center, 8450 La Mesa Blvd., 8-10 p.m.

The cost is $1.25 a dancer a week. There will also be a round dance class for senior citizens on Thursdays 12:30-2:30 p.m., in the Girls Cottage, beginning September 21st. This class is also $1.25 weekly. Both classes are taught by Louise and Pat Kimbley. Registration will be at the first class meetings.

State Places 3,980 In SD Area Jobs

California's State Employment offices in San Diego County made a total of 3,980 job placements in June, reports the Employment Development Department (EDD).

This was almost 17 per cent higher than the May placement total of 3,405, and was 42 per cent higher than the number placed in June 1977, which was 2,809.

For the current fiscal year (October through June), EDD has made 27,576 placements, compared with 20,390 in the same nine-month period of 1976-77. This is an increase of 35 per cent.

The corresponding figure for October through June 1975-76 was 19,004. This is an increase of 45 per cent for the two-year period.

CLEANING UP — Workmen tear down what's left of the sides and rear of what was the Cornet Variety Store at 7875 Broadway in Lemon Grove until it was gutted by fire in March. While a Cornet store may appear in Lemon Grove again, it most likely won't be on the same site (see accompanying story).

Cornet Store Comeback Unlikely at Old Premise

The former site of the fire-gutted Cornet Variety Store at 7875 Broadway is now for lease.

Submittals for the 8,000 ft. property which the store occupied until its destruction by fire in March this year, can be made to Coldwell Banker, a property management agent, at 236-1231.

The original structure built by Cornet some 15 to 20 years ago had been sold and leased from the present owner, who lives in Los Angeles, Joe Cornet of Pasadena said.

The lease was canceled when the fire broke out, Cornet said, and will not be renewed. The store might come back to Lemon Grove, however, provided a new location can be found.

Cornet said that he turned down one location offered to him.

The fire which destroyed the variety store March 9, the same night Lemon Grove suffered a power outage, was caused by overcharged neon lights. The possibility of arson was ruled out after investigations.

The property at 7875 Broadway will now be rented at 40 cents a square foot, said John Tanner of Coldwell Banker.

Hold on Helix Water Rates Only Temporary

Rates for water use in the Helix District will rise when Metro raises its charges, it was indicated last week when the Helix Water Works set its 1978-79 budget at $12,545,085, Clarence G. Watters, Helix general manager announced.

Of the total, $7,041,376 is the operating budget and that is down $883,436 from last year.

The capital improvement budget is $7,503,709, up $2,545,085 from last year. The improvement budget has no effect on water rates in this case since the source of the funds are $2.8 million from bond funds approved by voters in 1974 and $1.1 million from general funds, according to Lemon Grove board member Warren Buckner.

Part of the reduced operating budget stems from the winter rains which permitted the district to reduce water purchases by $500,000 although the district's import water cost has risen 11 per cent—$69 to $76.50 an acre-foot.

Other operating cost items are: debt service of $1.2 million most of which comes from water charges since the district levies no general assessment; $438,000 for water treatment—part of which is recovered for S.D. County Water Authority for providing treated water to adjoining water agencies; pumping costs of $423,000 mostly electrical energy costs, and insurance costs, up 56 percent—mostly liability.

Included in capital improvements is $3.9 million for replacing part of the old "flume" line northeast of El Cajon. $610,000 will go for installing service connections in new developments in which the district will be directly reimbursed by those benefitting. Other construction and equipment purchases will cost $946,000.

A general 6 percent increase in salaries negotiated with district employees is included in the operating budget. Watters noted that the district employs the same number of employees as it did 20 years ago while customers have increased from 26,790 to 47,905.

He warned that a major increase in the cost of imported water to be imposed by the Metro Water District within the next several months, will require increases in Helix water charges.

Total Renovation May Be Answer to L.G. Curb Problem

A 27-name petition from among the 61 Imperial to Kempf business establishments along Broadway, asking that the traffic control curbs be removed, may end up as total renovation of the area—and it may end up as nothing. Some of the petitions, it was learned, were not picked up.

The petitions were initiated by Vito Siragusa of Leone's.

What's important, members of the L.G. City Council Monday night acknowledged that the strip of Broadway in question was filled with problems.

City Manager Jack Shelver noted lighting, environmental, traffic and drainage impacts would have to be considered and that an engineering study should be made before the council could come to an action determination.

Councilman Del Lake said "removing the curbs is more complicated than it appears."

He called for a broader study than just curbs. He also noted that the strip "had the highest accident rate relative to its length than any similar strip in the state before the curbs were installed. Just removing the curbs isn't the answer," he said.

Councilman Dale Bailey said the strip was a "mass of problems" of which the curbs were only one.

Councilman Jack Doherty said that he had heard of 2 plans for the business district. One would convert that part of Broadway to a mall, closing it to all traffic and another would make it a one way avenue with widened parking areas.

Mayor Jim Dorman noted that describing the strip as a problem area was an understatement and suggested having city staff make a feasibility and cost study for having professional engineers (other than county) look at short and long-range plans for the area.

Bailey said that "some of the merchants can't wait 2 years while we make plans."

Both the Mayor and Bailey said the city must move quickly and piecemeal changes should be ruled out.

Shelver reminded the council that it would be a costly project and council should consider ways to finance any such improvement including a taxing district.

A feasibility study will be given at the September 5 council meeting.

Council also ordered the vacation of the public alley between Broadway and Lemon Ave. east of Corona so that E-Z 8 Motels could proceed with construction of a 40-room motel project.

There was good news for residents around Lemon Grove Park at Washington and Alton. First reading of an ordinance which would control noise in the park area was heard. It would prohibit "disturbing of the peace and quiet by loud or unusual noises... auto horns or noisemaking devices, profane, obscene or abusive language or gestures... operate or play or permit to be used any radio set, phonograph, musical instrument... sound amplifier."

A permit ($25) may be obtained for music or amplification if applied for 30 days ahead of use if it meets ordinance criteria.

Council also instructed staff to study the possibility of establishing a Dial-a-Ride system for intra-community public transportation.

The part of the cost that exceeds fares will be underwritten by transportation fund of gasoline taxes, Shelver said.

Tuesday Deadline for IRS Exam Application

An examination qualifying people who are neither CPAs nor attorneys to represent clients before the Internal Revenue Service will be held in San Diego September 25 and 26.

Deadline for filing applications (Form 2587, revised 4/78) is Tuesday.

Application forms and both preparatory publications, 486 and 693, can be obtained from any IRS local office.

RECORD HOLDER — Lemon Grove's All-Star Little League team was 2 games away from the L.L. World Series when they played Fullerton Tuesday evening. The team lost 6-2 but advanced to the Division level — farther than any Lemon Grove team in history. Had they won Tuesday they would have played in the Western Regional Saturday. Had they won that they would have gone to the World Series. In the back row, offering the City's best wishes, is Mayor Jim Dorman.

Film To Show Christian Treatment Of Teenage Heroin Addiction

A free showing of "The Jesus Factor," a film about the Teen Challenge organization's efforts to cure hard-core heroin addicts, is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. this Sunday in the auditorium at the First Baptist Church of Lemon Grove, corner of Olive and Main streets.

The 45-minute film deals with a study by the National Opinion Research Center, funded by a federal grant, which Teen Challenge officials claim proves that 70 per cent of teenage heroin addicts who enter the Christian-oriented Teen Challenge program are cured.

The study was conducted by Dr. Catherine Hess, former commissioner of health for the state of New York, who was skeptical of the cure rate claimed by Teen Challenge when tax-supported federal cure programs showed success rates of 1 to 6 per cent.

Alta Dena Raw Milk Judged Safe Again

State Food and Agriculture Director Richard E. Rominger has announced that the milk from Alta Dena's herd Number One in the City of Industry may once again be used for the production of certified raw milk. Milk from portions of that herd had been excluded from use in raw products since June 16 because it contained Salmonella bacteria.

Recent laboratory tests have fulfilled requirements of a court order issued on May 2, 1978 establishing criteria which must be met before raw milk from the herd could be produced for the public.

Salmonella dublin is a bacterial agent which infects cattle as its primary host. It can be transmitted in raw milk where it may cause gastrointestinal problems in the more resistant, and serious infections in those with lowered resistance, such as the sick, the elderly and infants.

Alta-Dena Dairy is also producing certified raw milk from a herd in Chino.

Teen Challenge, "and shows the methods and areas of activity that have brought about the phenomenal transformation of drug addicts to born-again Christians.

"The government-sponsored research study proved Teen Challenge to be the most successful program in the nation for treatment of hard-core heroin addicts," Jackson said.

"We believe that drug addiction is a symptom with spiritual solutions and Teen Challenge deals with the total person to include the spiritual aspect that most such programs fail to include."

Museum Schedules Underwater Studies

Underwater swims are planned by the San Diego Natural History Museum this Saturday, and August 19, at the La Jolla Underwater Park.

The park is an underwater ecological preserve where marine plants and animals can be studied by swimmers in the calm, shallow subtidal zone of the La Jolla Cove.

The museum has scheduled afternoon sections both days. Swimming in small groups and using snorkel, fins and face masks, they will explore the underwater habitat during a one-hour field study. They are being led by scientists from the museum and from Scripps Institution of Oceanography headed by Dr. Hans Bertsch, the museum's curator of marine invertebrates.

Participants must be good swimmers and will be expected to provide their own equipment. Wet suits are suggested, but are not required. Scuba diving is forbidden, and the minimum age is 15. The charge is $7.

Reservations are required and are being accepted now. Mail checks to the museum or call for information (714) 232-3821.

Dancing Group Meets

The Crown Chapter National Smooth Dancer's group will meet for ballroom practice or pleasure dancing August 18, at 8 p.m., at 3205 Washington st., Lemon Grove.

The non-profit organization assists those who wish to review their dancing, or learn ballroom dancing from the beginning. President is Iva Herrington — 469-8104.

Memorial Mass Set For Pope Paul VI

A special Memorial Mass in honor of Pope Paul VI, who died this week, will be celebrated beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. John of the Cross Catholic Church, 8086 Broadway in Lemon Grove.

Celebrant will be Rev. J. Raymond Moore, pastor.

VFW Aux Seeks New Members

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Mission Valley Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3787, 4870 Twain Ave., S.D., is seeking new members and wish to share the eligibility rules as laid down by the National VFW Ladies' Auxiliary By-Laws. Membership in the Ladies Auxiliary shall be limited to...women not less than 16 years old, who are citizens of the United States, according to Jean Rinner, membership chairman.

By-Laws are that "Members may include mothers, wives, widows, sisters, half-sisters, daughters, foster daughters (who were foster daughters prior to age 16), grandmothers and granddaughters of honorably discharged officers or enlisted men who have had service in the U.S. Armed Forces entitling them to the award of a campaign badge and as specified by rules governing eligibility in the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. Also eligible are foster mothers and foster sisters if they were in that status before the service was rendered."

Also, included for membership are female members of the Armed Forces of the United States of America, who have had honorable foreign service in time of war or during a campaign or expedition for which service a campaign badge has been authorized, as well as the mothers, sisters or daughters of these female overseas veterans who have a Campaign Medal Service.

Rinner's telephone is 278-7951.

Chinese Paintings, Rembrandt Etchings on View in Gallery

An exhibition on "Chinese Paintings from the Arthur M. Sackler Collection" featuring works of the leading Chinese painter of the late 17th century, will open at the Fine Arts Gallery August 12 and be on view until October 1.

The loan exhibition, unique in the Occident for its collection of Tao-chi landscapes, bamboo, flower and vegetable painting, was organized and first shown at Princeton University.

The show will be preceded by a reception Friday, 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Fine Arts Gallery. The number is 232-7931.

Following the Chinese Art exhibition will be a show of "Etchings of Rembrandt and His Followers," on view at the gallery from September 30 to November 12.

Rembrandt, better known for his paintings, had the reputation of being a fine print-maker. The medium of etching involves drawing into a resin- or wax-coated metal plate which is then immersed in a metal biting acid bath. The plate is then cleaned, inked and inserted in a printing press from which the final etching print emerges.

'Pet Switchboard' Offers New Phone ID Service

A new telephone and identification-tag service to keep lost pets from being destroyed because their owners can't be contacted in time is being offered in San Diego County.

"Pet Switchboard" tags, distributed in the San Diego area by Danka Enterprises (the parent firm is based in San Mateo) carry a toll-free phone number which can be called by anyone finding a lost pet that wears the tag.

An up-to-the-minute report can then be relayed to the owner regarding the pet's location or condition, said Kati Garner of Danka Enterprises, the local distributor.

The Pet Switchboard is different from other tag systems, Garner said, "because other systems don't maintain files on what to do with your pet in an emergency."

"When an animal is registered with our service," Garner said, "the owner pays a one-time fee of $15 and fills out a registration questionnaire which gives explicit instructions on how an emergency in the case of the particular pet should be handled."

"This owner card is then sent to Pet Switchboard headquarters where it is kept on file."

"Many doctors won't work on an animal unless they know they'll be paid. The animal isn't supposed to be put to sleep without the owner's expressed permission, regardless of the pain the pet is experiencing."

"All this information is displayed on the card and the vet just calls the toll-free number to receive medical information and permission to proceed without wasting precious time."

Pet Switchboard acts as the animal owner's agent in such an emergency, she said, and will also act as liaison when a reward is offered or ransom demanded.

"The registration fee and tag are good across the country no matter how often or where you move," Garner said. "The average American family only maintains its address for slightly more than two years. The average dog lives 12 years."

"If the family tags the pet in its first home, they will move 6 times before the pet dies, and often the family forgets to update the tag. Pet Switchboard solves this problem."

About 50,000 dogs are impounded each year by county animal regulation authorities, Garner said, but only 24 per cent are claimed by owners because so many, including many of pure breed, are not tagged for identification.

More information about Pet Switchboard may be obtained in San Diego County by calling 566-7300, extension 154, or 224-8258.

SV Student Wins $1,000 Scholarship

Janet Aguilar of Spring Valley, who will enter the University of California at Riverside (UCR) this fall as a freshman biomedical sciences major, has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship by UCR's Alumni Association.

She was one of 18 recipients of $1,000 scholarships chosen from among 250 applicants. Winners were chosen for scholastic achievement and school and community involvement.

Marta Granstedt, Veterinarian

Marta Granstedt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Granstedt, 1539 Drexel dr., Lemon Grove, has been graduated from the School of Veterinary Medicine, University of California at Davis, where she is now serving an internship in equine surgery.

Dr. Granstedt attended Lemon Grove schools and was graduated from Mt. Miguel High School in 1970. She completed her undergraduate studies at UC Davis, where she graduated summa cum laude with a B.S. in physiology.

Concert To Present 'Sweet Comfort' Group

A concert of Christian pop music will feature the recording group Sweet Comfort beginning at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday, Aug. 16, at the San Diego Civic Theatre, downtown San Diego.

Admission is free to the concert, which will also include an "evening's message" from Mike MacIntosh, pastor of Calvary Chapel of San Diego.

Tips Offered To Purchasers Of Insulation

If you are thinking of energy conservation the Soc. of Int. Cellulose Insulation Mfrs. (SICIM) has some suggestions that may be helpful.

First, get in touch with 3 or 4 reputable installing contractors. Locate their names in the yellow pages or by asking friends and neighbors who have had insulation installed in an existing home or have just finished retrofitting one.

Ask each contractor to come out to your home and give you an estimate on the amount of insulation needed, plus the approximate cost. To protect yourself against fraudulent or deceptive firms, also ask for the names of some families for whom they have installed insulation. Take the time to phone these families to see if the work performed was satisfactory.

When the contractors visit your home to give you an estimate, observe whether they carefully calculate the amount of insulation you need in terms of R-values, the standard manner for measuring the effectiveness of insulation, which will ensure minimum heat loss in winter or heat gain in summer. R-values represent a material's resistance to heat flow.

Contact SICIM at 7610 Pennsylvania ave., Suite 307, Washington, D.C. 20028 for data.

There's An Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale
She works; he raises hell

Q. I am 41 years old and the mother of 10 children. I work hard five days a week and pay all the bills. My husband don't do anything but ride up and down the road and get drunk and come home and raise hell at me and the kids. He told me he hates me and would kill me if I try to leave. I try to do everything I can to please him, but it don't do any good. Please, if you can, help me.

A. We think your husband does love you but obviously he is a frustrated and unhappy man, seemingly without purpose.

There just has to be a lot of good in this man that supportive helpfulness could bring out. Maybe he needs a strong wifely attitude from you, for perhaps your effort to do everything he wants indicates supineness, which is always irritating.

We suggest that you ask your local minister or priest to try to get your husband involved in something that will interest him and harness his frustrated energies.

We have a booklet, "A First Aid Kit for Marriage," that has helped others solve problems such as yours, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Needs to get organized

Q. Do you have any advice to help college beginners organize their time, life, studies and habits so they can keep up with their courses and get

Employment Census To be Taken Here

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area Monday through Friday, C. Michael Long, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Los Angeles, announced.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 70,000 households throughout the United States.

Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

For example, in June the survey indicated that of the 100.6 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 94.8 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate was 5.7 per cent, the lowest in nearly 4 years.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Clinic Offers Health Analysis

A $25 "health hazard appraisal" is offered by the East County Community Clinic, 205 Prescott ave., El Cajon.

Appraisals are made by feeding health data in a computer which analyzes them and points out health risks and their prevention.

Appointments should be made by calling 440-2751.

Repertory Theatre Has Children Show

"The Bean Bag Stories" by local playwright and composer Robin Taylor will mark the debut of the San Diego Repertory Theatre's Children Theatre.

A musical designed for children between the ages of 4 and 13, "The Bean Bag Stories" will be performed Saturdays at noon with August 19 set as the date of the musical's San Diego premiere.

The Repertory Theatre is located at 1620 Sixth ave., San Diego, one block from Balboa Park. Tickets are $1 for children and adults. The number is 213-3585.

the most out of college? I'm a 19-year-old male college freshman and I find it difficult to say "No!" to my friends, and to stay home and study during the school week.

A. Your problem is one of priorities, which every busy person faces. Decide what, in order of importance, is number one on your list of activities. Then stick to this priority. Otherwise failure will result, be it for college student, housewife or businessman.

Stiffen up your resolution and learn the skill of saying "No" firmly but pleasantly if something is going to interfere with your top priority.

Ashamed to get help

Q. I have a delicate problem which I'm ashamed to consult with my doctor or preacher. My husband is having sex with his sister. She tells her husband she is going to Bingo; my husband lies also by telling me he is at his favorite club. I have proof of this, and as soon as I'm better situated I'm planning on separating. In the meantime how should I cope with it?

A. First of all you should, of course, consult with your doctor and your minister. They have the advantage of local acquaintance and therefore are better able to help you. Since both are professionals, shame is no factor in such a consultation.

You have a human problem here which involves concern for two people engaged in repulsive wrongdoing and having the potential of wrecking two families.

If your doctor and minister agree and you are sure of your facts, we believe your husband and his sister should be confronted with the matter. Try by every means to put a stop to it.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Dog Training Class Set

Registration is now open for dog obedience training classes at the San Diego County Humane Society, 887 Sherman st., San Diego.

Classes scheduled to begin August 29, 30 and 31 respectively, will be offered one hour a week at 1 p.m. Thursdays or 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays. Cost for the 8-week course is $20, payable at registration.

Dogs must be more than four months old with proof of rabies, distemper, hepatitis and leptospirosis shots. A six-foot leather leash and a choke collar are required during the course.

The number is 299-7012.

Ballet Company Project Presents Dances, Play

A one-act play and a variety of dances will be presented by the California Ballet Company Cultural Outreach Project tomorrow, 8 p.m. at the City College Theatre, 15th and C st., San Diego.

The CETA/RETIC project, funded for 7 months until September 1978, provides free performances and workshops to non-profit organizations and community groups.

The number is 232-6387.

Area Obituaries

Laura C. Burson

Better is a dry morsel, and quietness therewith, than a house full of sacrifices with strife.

BUENOS DIAS FROM SPAIN—It means good morning, and good mornings, afternoons and evenings are being had by 17 exchange students 14 to 21 years old from Spain, being hosted in 13 area homes through August 26, under the sponsorship of the Pacific American Institute. Sixteen of the 17 are shown outside the Spring Valley home of one of the host families, that of Richard Warren at 3546 Bentley dr. Adults in the foreground are Claudio Zudaire from Spain, program director for Pacific American Institute (with guitar); Jo Fritschel, who's teaching special classes at Mt. Miguel High School for the group in the English language and American culture and Ferne McCuen, local coordinator for the institute. The students are Fernando Adiego, Silvestre Echave, Beatriz Fernandez, Victor Fernandez, Tere Garcia, Carmen Gonzalez, Jose Marijuan, Elisabeth Rothfritz, Marga Rothfritz, Teresa Sosa, Carlos Ortiz (missing in the photo), Ignacio Ortiz, Pedro Ortiz, Inigo Sandagorta, Javier Sandagorta, Enrique Vidal and Mireia Vidal.

This Week's RECIPE Breakfast Quiche

By Susanne Williams

Leave it up to nosy husbands to change a French staple into an American breakfast delight.

The staple is Quiche Lorraine and is usually enjoyed as a light dinner main course with salad and a fresh, young white wine.

But under the observant eyes of masculine kitchen kibitzers the quiche's basic ingredients turn out to be exactly what every red-blooded American male wants for breakfast — bacon and eggs.

Breakfast Quiche

- 1 frozen 9-inch pie shell
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 onion, chopped
- 5 strips bacon, chopped
- Salt, pepper and nutmeg to taste
- Chopped fresh parsley (optional)

Heat onions and bacon in a small pan until onions are tender. Mix eggs and milk in a bowl and season to taste. Fill pie shell with bacon-onion mixture and pour egg-milk mixture over it. Bake at 300 degrees until liquid sets. Garnish with parsley. Serves four with small breakfast appetites or two who are feeling more ravenous.

Chris Gorsuch On Organ Concert

Southland Music Center, 3459 Imperial, Lemon Grove, will present local San Diego Organist Chris Gorsuch in concert Saturday at 8 p.m.

Gorsuch has been a resident Organist for Organ Power Pizza restaurants for the past 3 1/2 years. He has appeared at Southland Music Center for the Theatre Organ Club.

He studied with nationally-known organ artist, Lyn Larsen, and silent film accompaniment with East Coast organist Lee Erwin.

Chris is at home with pipe and electronic organ tools as master craftsman/technician as he is at the console, or in the role of teacher.

Chris has served as President for the Miami Valley Theatre Organ Chapter of the American Theatre Organ Society. In addition, he rebuilt the Wurliitzer Organ in the State Theatre, Springfield, Ohio. He is supervising the restoration and rebuilding project of the Wurliitzer Pipe Organ installed at Southland Music Center.

Short Weight Food Packages May Defy Weights Inspectors

California's food shoppers are being put on notice that unless a recent court decision is either modified or overturned, state and county weights and measures inspectors will not be able to prevent the sale of short weight packages of food in stores.

State food and agriculture director Richard E. Rominger reports that the ruling by the Second Court of Appeals in Los Angeles effectively ties the hands of inspectors from continuing to remove short weight packages of food from store shelves.

"Even if our inspectors have proof that packages of such things as bacon, ham, hot dogs and frozen foods weigh less than stated on the labels," Rominger said, "the items may not be taken off sale."

The ruling came as a result of a court case—People versus Rath Packing Company—in which Rath argued that to take its products off sale without a hearing violates its right of "due process." The Department argued that if packages of food are found to be short weight, they should be removed immediately before more people are victimized. The court, Rominger said, agreed with Rath.

In making the ruling, the court said: "In concluding that California's present off-sale procedure denies Rath due process, we have balanced the public interest sought to be protected, i.e., the right of the consumer to be free from misbranded (mislabelled) goods, against the deprivation suffered by Rath."

What the court "failed to recognize," Rominger said, "is that the procedure for a formal hearing takes so much time that the product would be gone before the results of the hearing are known. By that time, the damage would be done and the evidence gone."

Under the court's reasoning, Rominger said, "not even federal inspectors in packing plants such as those Rath operates would be able to keep the short weight packages they find from being shipped all over the country without first holding a formal hearing. Then it would be too late."

Rominger said that he is concerned that this ruling could apply to other products in California.

"Will our inspectors be able to shut down a gasoline pump because it is delivering short quantities of gasoline? Will they be able to take bad quality oil, antifreeze, brake fluid, and other petroleum products off sale before they damage more equipment?"

"And, what about inaccurate scales, from those used in supermarkets to the giant ones used to weigh moving vans? Will they be able to prevent their use until they are made accurate? Apparently not, unless this ruling is changed."

"We feel that when a person picks up a package of bacon or ham, and the label says 16 ounces or 5 pounds, that is how much the package should contain. We are in the process of asking the court to modify its position, and if that doesn't work, we will appeal the ruling to the State Supreme Court."

"I find it hard to believe that our courts could make a ruling so detrimental to the public," he added. "The effect of such a ruling if applied nationwide could have a significant adverse impact upon the nation's shoppers."

Renter Protection Goal of Agencies

Tenants are not without rights or protection.

A Renter's Hot Line is now available for tenants who report rent increases which have gone into effect since June 1, 1978.

"Calls are being monitored and will be followed up," said Jim Brown, president of the Apartment and Rental Owners Association. The number is 294-9227.

Complaints of racial discrimination by denying rental services to minorities can be brought to the Department of Real Estate, a state agency protecting discrimination-free housing opportunities. The number in San Diego is 237-7345.

In addition, the California Association of Realtors has joined a coalition of housing industry leaders in a program for voluntary landlord reductions resulting from the passage of Proposition 13. The program calls for voluntary sharing of tax savings as a desirable alternative to pending legislation which would mandate benefits sharing with renters.

Exhibit Open to Public

The public is invited to attend the annual juried membership exhibit of the San Diego Watercolor Society held until August 31 at the Central Federal Plaza Gallery, 225 Broadway.

The gallery is open daily from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Art Gallery Features Provder, Balas Works

Two art shows featuring works by Elinore Provder and Walter Balas will be presented by the San Diego Art Institute through September and October.

Provder's one-person show "In Search of Myself" . . . An Exploration of Relationships I Have Had, Roles I Have Played, and Masks I Have Worn" will be open August 29 through September 24.

Concurrent with the Provder work is the institute's September juried membership show.

Balas' paintings and graphics with emphasis on linecuts will be shown September 26 through October 22. A native of the Ukraine, Balas studied art in Warsaw, Poland, and emigrated to Canada and eventually Southern California after World War II.

Concurrent with the Balas work will be the October membership exhibition.

The San Diego Art Institute Gallery at 1449 El Prado, Balboa Park, is open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, 12:30 to 5 p.m.

The institute will be closed to the public for preparation for the Annual from October 23 to November 3.

'Dream' Scheduled For Starlight Bowl

"A Midsummer Night's Dream," the famous Shakespeare classic, will be presented again this year by the California Ballet Co. in Balboa Park's Starlight Bowl, September 8th and 9th, at 8:30 p.m.

The popular production, conceived and choreographed by California Ballet Company Artistic Director Maxine Mahon, will star Marlene Jones and Douglas Heavenor as Hippolyta and Theseus.

Patrice Daborowski will portray Puck, the mischievous sprite who brings hilarious confusion to the 4 lovers.

The lovers will be danced by Cher Carnell as Hermia, Denise Dabrowski as Helena, Robert Seegmiller as Demetrius, and Jon Martin as Lysander. Oberon and Titania, the King and Queen of Faaland, will be danced by Roman Wright and Robin Briceno, and the role of Bottom will again be portrayed by Patrick Nollet.

"Dream" was first performed last September in Starlight to enthusiastic audiences. The production has a cast of 80 with a full orchestra and chorus. Sets and costumes built for last year's premiere were made possible in part by a federal CETA grant. Scenery was designed by William Morse and costumes by Robert Eaton, Flora Jennings, and Ruth Small.

Felix Mendelssohn's incidental music for the original "Midsummer Night's Dream" stage play was expanded to a full-length ballet with the help of CBC musical director, Dr. David Ward-Steinman.

Additional Mendelssohn music, from his Fourth and Ninth Symphonies, The Fair Melusina and other compositions, has been successfully incorporated.

Tickets are $3 to $8. Tickets may be purchased from the California Ballet Centre, 8276 Ronson rd., Kearny Mesa 9 a.m.-7:30 p.m. until August 26. The phone is 560-5676.

Crosby, Read Handicaps Top Del Mar Racing Week

Renewal of the $30,000-added Bing Crosby Handicap and the $50,000-added Eddie Read Handicap, significant stakes events which honor the memory of 2 of the most influential personalities in Del Mar history, will highlight the racing week at the seaside course.

The 6-furlong Crosby Handicap, which traditionally crowns the sprint champion of the summer meeting, will have its 33rd running Saturday while the Read Handicap, programmed at a mile and one eighth on the infield grass course will be presented for the 5th time Sunday.

Kirkland Stable's Ancient Title, richest active Thoroughbred in America with earnings of $1,252,791, may go postward in the Crosby Handicap, according to trainer Keith Stucki. The 8-year-old Gummo gelding, 9th on the all-time list of money-winners, recently ran the Crosby distance at 1:08 1/5 in his first outing since last winter.

Ancient Title is being pointed for the invitational $100,000 Del Mar Handicap, a race he won a year ago in track record time of 1:55 2/5 for the unique distance of 120 feet less than a mile and one-quarter.

Sturm Rejoins Levin in Post With NBA Team

Ernie Sturm has been named Director of Group Sales and Community Relations for San Diego's National Basketball Assn. team. The announcement was made by Irv Levin, club president.

"I am very happy that Ernie has joined our organization. We have known each other for a long time and he is a welcome addition to the franchise," Levin said.

Sturm comes to San Diego after previously serving as Vice President of National General Corp. He was in charge of Operations for the U. S. and Canada. Included in his duties were all merchandise items for National General. Sturm has been a resident of San Diego since 1948, when he moved here from L. A. to become District Manager of this area.

"I am delighted to be working with Mr. Levin's franchise," he said. "I have been working for him for over 30 years, and being a resident of San Diego I can't wait for the season to begin."

Sturm is a graduate of South Dakota State (1935), where he received a B.A. in Engineering. He currently resides in Encinitas with his wife Kim and youngest son John. They have three other children, Gary, Pam and Kim.

Holiday Bowl Ticket Sales Top 20,000

Tickets for the first annual Holiday Bowl Football Game are selling briskly, according to Executive Director Les Land.

"Already 20,000 tickets have been sold and almost 20,000 are spoken for," Land said. "The additional 20,000 include the NCAA requirements for the two schools that will participate in the game."

The Holiday Bowl will feature the champion of the Western Athletic Conference against a nationally ranked inter-sectional opponent.

The game will be played on Friday, December 22, at the 52,000 seat San Diego Stadium. Kick-off for the contest is set for 6 p.m.

Fans who have not purchased tickets are invited to stop by the Holiday Bowl ticket office at Gate F, San Diego Stadium, to pick up membership and ticket application.

Ticket applications are also available from the 2 local organizations that are working with the Holiday Bowl Committee. The two groups are the San Diego Children's Hospital and Health Center and the Institute for Burn Medicine.

"These two organizations are doing a tremendous job selling tickets for the Holiday Bowl," Land said. "Their dedication in selling tickets and memberships for the game should help assure a sell-out for 1978 and for many years to come."

7 schools will be vying for the championship of the Western Athletic Conference (WAC) and the honor of being the first home team for the Holiday Bowl. The schools include S. D. State U., Brigham Young, the U. of Wyoming, New Mexico, Colorado State, the U. of Texas at El Paso, and the U. of Utah.

The ticket number is 283-5800.

Ronnie Wilson Tops Boxing Card

El Cajon's Ronnie Wilson, riding on the crest of a recent win over Lenis Provo, meets Eugene Miera of Hawthorne in the next boxing card at the S.D. Coliseum August 18.

On the bill are Bert Lee of Campo and Larry Duran of L.A. There will be 26 rounds of boxing altogether.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

The San Diego football Chargers have a Huge Louie, a Gigantic Russ and a Monumental Milton and unfortunately, all of these mastodons are charged with line duty.

Russ Washington stands 6-feet, 7-inches tall and checks in at a trim 290 pounds. He anchors the right side of the offensive line and is starting his 11th year for the Chargers.

Huge Louie is Louie Kelcher, of course. He stands 6-5 and tips the scale at 280 or so. Louie is starting his fourth year on the maturing defensive line.

And Monumental Milton is just a babe in the woods coming into his first football war. He tops out at a mere 6-9 and subjects the scale to a whopping 325 pounds. Milton Hardaway is called "Hulk" by his full-sized team mates, who to a man, respect his vastness.

Now it stands to reason that head coach and talent director Tommy Prothro would assign these three behemoths to service up front where they can tower their power in proper fashion.

But the dream of all linemen is to score. Not just after hours during free moments away from the game. But to SCORE with the football. In a game. Against the enemy. Right there in front of Tommy Prothro and God and all lesser folks.

So, why not, already? How about a play that puts one or more of these behemoths in the backfield for a straight on smash up the middle?

There are times for passing, time for finesse, running wide, play action and all that stuff. But there is a time in every game, usually more than once, when the call has to be out-and-out pure power. Fourth and one for a late game first down. Third or fourth down and inches from the goal line.

It's power time. Pure, all-out, massive power time. And you run with the biggest backs you've got. Hard-nosed types who'd just as soon charge a brick wall as a defensive one.

But even the giant of running backs, a massive master of muscle named "Cookie" Gilchrist who did his thing for the Buffalo Bills in the old AFL days, came in at what has to be rated a diminutive 250 pounds when measured against any of Prothro's titans.

Yet there was no force on the field that could keep Cookie from picking up a yard or two when called upon. He could knock down trees with a three yard head start.

So, why not use the mastodons in the backfield as kind of a "double duty" threat when short yardage is needed. There's not a lineman in the league who wouldn't love a chance to run from the "I" with a "whoop" and a cry. They'd charge in head first, laughing all the way.

Can't you just see Kelcher or Hardaway or Washington spiking the ball or doing a war dance as they prance around the end-zone after charging in for a score? In their glee, they could reach out and slap the goal post out of existence, or plug the ball two feet into the ground on the spike. Even on cement based artificial turf.

It'll never happen of course. The running back's union will force an injunction or something to keep massive linehulks out of their domain. You can hear it now. "Linemen should play the line, only bonafide running backs get to carry the ball," they'll chant. It could become a union issue.

But, I, for one would just love to see it happen. Especially against Oakland. Inches to go with the game on the line and in comes Louie Kelcher, Milton Hardaway to join Russ Washington shifted into a FULL house backfield for a herd charge at the line. You'd be able to hear the crash clear out to Alpine. Even if they played the game at Oakland.

It's just a dream, of course. Prothro would never go for it. Admit though. Wouldn't it be one helluva play? Just one helluva beautiful damn play.

Pack Closes in on Esau, Banned E.C. Oval Racer

The super stock drivers are wasting little time gaining on point leader Ron Esau, who has been slapped with a 3-race suspension by the Board of Directors of the El Cajon Stock Car Racing Assn.

Esau was set down following the main event at Cajon Speedway on July 29 for what ECSCRA President Hilton Vail termed vindictive driving. Esau took out race leader Pat McIntyre of Spring Valley after the 2 had waged a bitter duel for the lead for 15 laps of the main event. Ironically, McIntyre won the 40-lapper main Saturday night.

With Esau in Salt Lake City last week, several drivers made big gains on the leader and will be trying to improve their positions more Saturday when the popular super stocks return to action on the 3/8 mile oval.

Race time Saturday night will be 8 with a 10-race card booked into the track.

The 40-lap main event will highlight the evening with a 10-lap powder puff race added to the card.

Gary Crossland, Esau's closest rival for the 1978 title, picked up 190 points on Esau Saturday when he finished second to race-winner McIntyre.

With 2 more races still outstanding on the penalty, Crossland looks to move closer before the September 2 return date of Esau. Crossland has won one main event already this season and another win this weekend would close the 560 point gap between him and the leader even more.

Meanwhile a tight struggle is developing for third place with third place George Esau only 145 points ahead of 7th place Mark Norris with Larry Owens, Mike Hagerman and Tomlinson sandwiched in between.

Four Games with Reds End Padres Homestand

The Padres wind up a stretch of 13 consecutive games against the L.A. Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds as they host the Reds for 4 games tonight through Sunday. It's the second time this season the Padres have run a 13-game gauntlet against the 2 Western Division powers and the Padres began the second string in impressive fashion by sweeping the Dodgers 3 straight before record crowds in San Diego Stadium.

Excellent turnouts are also expected for the Reds series as the Padres try to make the National League's Western Division a 4-team race in 1978. If Padre manager Roger Craig continues with his current 4-man pitching rotation it will be Randy Jones, Bob Owchinko, Gaylord Perry and Eric Rasmussen pitching in that order in the 4-game series.

The advance ticket sale for the Cincinnati series is unusually high as many fans had anticipated the possibility of Pete Rose tying Joe DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak in San Diego Stadium on August 12. Now the fans have an even bigger reason to enjoy the series — the Padres actually getting involved in the 1978 pennant race!

The game tonight is the 8th of 11 7-up Junior Padre dates with another round in Long's Long Ball Hitting Contest scheduled immediately afterwards.

Tomorrow is Picture Card Autograph Night. 10,000 full color picture packs compliments of Family Fun Center will be given to fans. Players and coaches will be available for autographs on the plaza level 5:45-6:30 p.m. Rookie-of-the-Year candidate Ozzie Smith, former Cy Young Award Winner Randy Jones and coaches Phil Roof and Billy Herman will be featured. Saturday night, Ross K. O'Leary, president of the Let's Dine Out Co., is giving a thoroughbred race horse to a lucky Padre fan. 12 fans will be selected to compete in a horseshoe throwing contest at the conclusion of the game with the winner receiving the thoroughbred. Agua Caliente also joins in the festivities by designating all August 12 Padre ticket stubs good for Caliente Club House admission any weekend up to and including September 17.

The Cincinnati series winds up Sunday, with stereo equipment given away throughout the game, compliments of Dow Sound City.

Following the Reds series the Padres head east for 9 games against the Mets, Expos and Phillies, returning home Thursday night, August 24 to host the Mets and begin a 10-game homestand.

Birthday Party for Laver Adds to WTT Play Tonight

Rod Laver turns 40 today but he won't be able to eat his own cake.

The Friars are having a birthday celebration for player-coach Laver and are inviting all those in the Sports Arena to attend the match with Indiana tonight to participate.

Ice cream, cookies, punch and coffee will be the standard treats and the San Diego County Retail Bakers Assn. is presenting Laver with his 40th birthday cake. The fans will get to eat that, too.

To make sure everyone has the opportunity to participate in the celebration, the Friars are conducting the second Family Night ticket promotion on the same evening with those 18 and under able to purchase reserved seats for $1 and adults paying only $3.

On Saturday night, the Friars close out their regular season against the L.A. Strings and Ilie Nastase and Chris Evert. It'll also be 25-cent Beer Night as well as Fan Appreciation Night with Air California round trip tickets to Lake Tahoe heading a lengthy prize list. Also, 4,000 CBCB's will be distributed to those attending.

Nastase and Evert last appeared in San Diego May 11 and since then Nastase and Laver have had some less-than cordial moments. Nastase, in a match in L.A., threatened to fire a ball at Mona Guerrant, taunted Laver continually during their set and nearly came to blows with Ross Case.

The Strings even refused to permit the KCB Chicken to occupy a paid seat in the stands when the teams last met on July 16, a match won by San Diego but without Nastase in the L.A. lineup.

In the finale, the Friars still could catch Boston for the best win-loss percentage in the WTT, which would insure San Diego of the home court advantage throughout the playoffs.

Post-season play begins in San Diego August 15 with the opposition for the best two of three match series either Seattle or Phoenix.

Tickets for remaining matches as well as for the playoffs are available at the Friars ticket windows at the Sports Arena as well as convenient locations throughout San Diego County.

Aztec PR Post Goes to Herman

Bruce Herman, who has been sports information director at Wake Forest U. for the past year, has accepted the same position with the S. D. State U. Athletic Department. The announcement of Herman's appointment was made by Mike Urbano, Assistant Athletic Director for Promotions and Publicity for the Aztecs.

Herman, who earned a Bachelor of Science degree in business from Wake Forest in 1976, will begin his duties on Montezuma Mesa Monday.

An assistant in the Deacon sports information office in his 4 years as an undergraduate, Herman became full time assistant SID for the 1976-77 school year, and was elevated to head sports information director at his alma mater last year. Herman's 1977-78 Deacon basketball brochure was judged third best in the nation by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

S.D. Hockey Team Named Seahawks

San Diego's new North American Hockey League team announced its new name this week—the Seahawks.

But the name of the coach is the same—Ron Ingram. Elmer Jonnet, Pittsburgh real estate developer, called Ingram "a winner" and said the organization would be dedicated to aggressiveness.

Bob Paine, manager of the team's predecessor—the Mariners—remains as manager.

The team will play at the San Diego Sports Arena.

Lemon Grove Little League Loses at Division Level 6-2

By Bill Ott

Something awful happened to the Lemon Grove Little League team Tuesday night on its way to the Little League World Series.

The team which had won 7 championship games, lost to Fullerton in the Division playoffs.

The line score:
Lemon Grove 2-9-1
Fullerton 6-6-1

Lemon Grove outplayed the winners but things didn't fall into place for the locals.

Yet the team advanced farther than any Lemon Grove team in history and compiled a 7-1 record.

Had Lemon Grove won, the team would have played in San Bernardino Saturday for the western states championship. The winner of that game would have gone to Williamsport, PA to represent the west in the Little League World Series. It was that close.

Looking back:

On Saturday, the Lemon Grovers won a 7-0 no hitter behind the pitching of Steve Hill against Mexicali in the Section 8 championship game at Clairemont Mesa. That was the game that propelled Lemon Grove into the Fullerton playoffs.

The one-two pitching punch of Jimmy Oyos and Hill has been superb for the local nine. Oyos has 2 wins and one no-decision to his credit, while Hill has posted 3 wins—all shutouts.

With the pitching rotation as it has been, by necessity rather than design, Hill has hurled the championship game in all 3 tournaments.

Oyos had shaky moments in his first two starts, but was letter-perfect Thursday when he pitched a 1-0 shutout at Kearny Mesa. He toiled the complete 6 innings, allowing 4 hits, 2 walks and recording 5 strikeouts.

Thursday's game was in doubt until the 6th and final inning when Hill crossed the plate on a wild pitch.

Hill, playing shortstop, began the Lemon Grove rally in the 6th with a single. He advanced to second on a wild pitch and to third on a fly ball off the bat of Rowdy Sedlickas. He scampered home on a wild pitch to Lance Ortega who struck out to end the inning.

In the sixth, Oyos faced just 3 batters. He retired Jon McRae on a grounder to the mound, walked Julian Herrera to put the tying run on base. Lopez followed by hitting Oyos' second pitch to Hill who stepped on second and fired to first for a game-ending doubleplay.

Lemon Grove managed just 3 hits in the affair, getting 2 singles by Mark Paule and Hill's single in the 6th.

In Saturday's championship contest Lemon Grove tallied 9 hits, but doubles by Ortega and Larry Simms provided 1 of the 7 runs.

Lemon Grove's first run of the game came in the second inning. Hill singled but was cut down on a questionable call at 3rd base on a single by Damon Penny. Penny advanced to 3rd on the throw that scratched Hill. He scored on Sedlickas' high hopper to short.

Lemon Grove went quietly in the 3rd, but put the game away in the 4th, collecting 6 runs—5 of them after two were out.

Paule walked and advanced to 3rd on a wild throw on his stolen base attempt. Hill popped out and Damon Penny struck out, but the local team had started a rally that brought a roar of approval from backers.

Now, with two out, Sedlickas hit a right field line drive single which sent Paule home with the game's second run.

Oyos then singled to center to set the stage for Ortega's double to the fence, Jeff Stacy walked and Andy Roberts was hit by the pitcher, loading the bases. Simms ripped a double to center clearing the bases but was thrown out trying to stretch it into a triple.

Mexicali had just 4 base runners in the game. 2 were aboard due to errors at third base by Stacy and Mike Twyman, one on a fielder's choice and the other on a walk in the third inning.

Hill has yielded just 5 hits in the 3 games he's pitched, spanning 18 innings. He's recorded 26 strikeouts in posting a perfect 3-0 tournament slate.

Death Match Pits Mayne Against Piper

The King of Mexican Death Matches, Moon Dog Mayne, takes on the Scotch Terror, Roddy Piper, in a professional wrestling match Tuesday at the S.D. Coliseum.

In the match there is no referee, no disqualifications and the bout continues until one wrestler is unable to continue.

American Tag Team Champions Pak-Choo and Professor Ito, stake their title in a match with Black Gorman and GO. As an added incentive to work diligently, the losers will be required to leave town.

Back from a 30 day suspension by way of a loser-leaves-town match last month is Chavo Guerrero who will scrap Tony Rocco.

In the 7:30 p.m. opener are Carlos Mata who meets Great Goliath.

The Coliseum is at 15th and E sts. downtown.

Celebrity Aid For Dimes March At S.B. Speedway

South Bay Park Speedway has scheduled a 10-lap celebrity auto race as part of its March of Dimes night of competition for super and street stock cars, Saturday, August 26, it was announced this week by track president Don Basile.

Invitations will be extended to many entertainment people in the county who wish to be a race driver for the evening, said Basile, whose race track is located just off Interstate 117 and southeast of Brown Field in Otay Mesa.

Rick Powell, president of the sanctioning South Bay Race Assn., said that 100 super and street stocks will be made available for competition on the quarter-mile dirt oval.

Proceeds obtained from the night of racing will go to the San Diego-Imperial chapter of the March of Dimes for research and education in the field of birth defects.

Gates will open at the track at 6 p.m. with qualifications for both divisions of cars scheduled for 7 p.m. and the first of two trophy dashes set for 8 o'clock. The celebrity race will be conducted between the street and super stock main events.

Barbra B 'Cap Set for LosAl

LOS ALAMITOS — Kipity's Drum, runnerup in the prestigious Go Man Go, will be taking on the top 550 yard runners in Friday's (August 11) $17,500-added Barbra B Handicap while the best 3-year-olds will be featured in the $20,000-added Sophomore Handicap the following night at Los Alamitos.

Quarter horse action continues at the Orange County oval six nights weekly, Monday through Saturday, until August 22.

HollyPark Payoff In Record Season

A Hollywood Park record that has been broken with consistency in recent years fell again during the just-completed 1978 thoroughbred season, when horsemen competed for an average of $18,407 per race.

Total purse distribution for the 78-day season was $12,922,150, another all-time high at the Inglewood track and a national record for a single meeting. This is a 15.6 per cent increase over the previous record of $11,173,175, paid during the 76-day meet last year.

Daily average net purse distribution for the spring-summer meeting was $165,663, an increase of 12.7 per cent over the previous record of $147,015 set in 1977.

What You Should Know

About Your Health Acne

If acne could be eliminated by avoiding certain foods, millions of teenage complexions would clear up overnight.

Unfortunately, this common and painful condition, which generally occurs during adolescence, is not caused by food and the strictest diet will not cure it, according to the California Dietetic Association (CDA).

In fact, blanket elimination of a wide variety of foods from the diet, encouraged in some teen articles, can lead to poor nutrition and may even aggravate acne, CDA says.

Daily selections from the four food groups—milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals—are essential to insure a proper balance of nutrients during this important growing period.

The main factor responsible for adolescent acne is hormonal. During puberty, oil glands in the skin are enlarged due to hormonal secretions normal during this period of bodily change.

In the acne-prone individual, these oil glands become plugged and whiteheads or blackheads form which can result in pimples.

In addition, genetics contribute to a predisposition for acne, which helps explain why some teenagers breeze through adolescence with scarcely a blemish. Acne-prone individuals probably have a parent who was also afflicted.

While there are several methods of treatment and a physician's guidance is advisable in severe cases, sympathetic parental support is also important, says the CDA. Acne generally clears up as a hormone balance is reached in young adulthood, but this is scant comfort for the 14-year-old with pimples.

Personal cleanliness is the most important medically approved technique for keeping mild acne under control. Frequent, thorough washing of the face with hot water and soap removes accumulating oils. Scrupulously clean hands and fingernails prevent spreading infection. Hair should be shampooed at least twice a week and pulled away from the face when sleeping.

In addition to assuring that the teenager is eating a balanced diet, parents should be aware that overuse of fats and sweets can sometimes affect a problem complexion. However, this doesn't mean giving up all of the rich foods so dear to teenagers. Smaller and less frequent portions can be included provided the diet is balanced in other respects.

Parents should also encourage teenagers not to skip meals since this results in snacking, probably on the fatty or sweet foods such as candy, potato chips and pastries that may aggravate acne, says the CDA.

Mills Endorsed By Hospital Employees

Senator James R. Mills (D-San Diego) has been endorsed for his re-election to the 40th Senatorial District by the Hospital and Service Employees Union SEIU AFL-CIO, CLC, Local 399.

The endorsement was announced by the Chairman of the Committee to Re-elect Senator James R. Mills, Charles E. Reid.

Senator Mills was wished well in the coming election in the letter of endorsement transmitted to him by G. John Genuardi, C.O.P.E. Director of Local 399.

Encyclopedia of Culture '78 Is $2 Catalog

A Chicago publisher has just released a massive volume which documents the way we live in late 1978. It chronicles in minute detail what we wear, the tools we use, how we decorate our homes and the equipment we use for our recreation. It will serve as the reference document of our time in history forevermore for historians, sociologists, movie directors and antique dealers.

It is 1,564 pages in length and elaborately illustrated with tens of thousands of detailed drawing and photographs, mostly in full color. It promises to be such a popular work that 15 million copies of the volume were printed.

The book has no author. It is the combined work of thousands of writers, researchers and photographers. It sells for only $2 at outlets all over the country... and if one is currently using a previous edition regularly, the volume is available free of charge.

The book is destined to be buried in more time capsules and encased in more cornerstones during the next six months than any other published work.

Its name? The Sears, Roebuck and Co. Fall/Winter 1978 catalog!

Your Good-bye Could Be Someone's Good Buy.

Parting with familiar objects is sometimes as difficult as saying good-bye to an old friend. Your pet lion. The encyclopedia you inherited. The ping-pong table nobody uses any more. The bicycle you bought but never rode.

Your home is filled with things you have acquired over the years. But now they just stand around and collect dust.

Take a look around. You probably need more room in your garage or attic. Now it's time to start saying good-bye to some of your possessions — and even to earn money in the process.

Put an ad in the paper. For your pet lion or your ping-pong table. Whatever you want to sell, it could be someone's good buy.

Rams Host Chargers In Annual Cup Game

The San Diego Chargers and Los Angeles Rams meet in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum at 7 p.m. Saturday.

It is the tenth game in pre-season rivalry that began in 1967. Los Angeles holds a 5-4 edge. The Chargers won 26-25 in 1977 at Los Angeles to reclaim the California Lieutenant Governor's Cup that goes to the winning team. Past scores with game sites in parenthesis:

1967—Los Angeles, 50-7 (S.D.)
1968—San Diego, 35-13 (S.D.)
1969—Los Angeles, 24-14 (S.D.)
1970—Los Angeles, 16-14 (S.D.)
1971—San Diego, 20-14 (L.A.)
1972—San Diego, 14-13 (S.D.)
1973—Los Angeles, 30-17 (L.A.)
1974—Los Angeles, 30-16 (S.D.)
1977—San Diego, 26-25 (L.A.)

The Chargers and Rams have met on two other occasions, the Rams winning 37-10 in the 1970 regular season at Los Angeles and the Rams winning 13-10 in overtime in the 1975 regular season at San Diego.

Last year Chargers quarterback James Harris, acquired in a trade with L.A. June 14, 1977, completed 16 of 30 passes for 234 yards and three touchdowns as the Chargers won on a 22-yard field goal by Toni Fritsch on the last play of the game.

Chargers wide receiver-kick returner Johnny Rodgers caught 5 passes for 80 yards and touchdowns of seven and 34 yards; Rodgers gained 99 yards on returns of 179 yards total yards.

The victory was not only a triumphant return to L.A. for Harris. Chargers coach Tommy Prothro made his first appearance in the Coliseum since 1972. Prothro was head coach at U.C.L.A. from 1965-70 and head coach of the Rams in 1971-72. Chargers tight end Bob Klein, who caught 5 passes for 82 yards, had been traded to San Diego August 16, 1977, by L.A., for which Klein had played since being selected in the first round of the 1969 NFL collegiate draft out of U.S.C.

Rookie Matador On Seaside Card

One of the finest cartels of the year has been arranged for Sunday in the bullring by the sea, Plaza Monumental de Tijuana.

Matadors stars will be Eloy Cavazos and Mariano Ramos, plus the surprise star of the summer, young David Silveti. Beginning at 4 p.m. they will face bulls from the highly respected ranch of Mariano Ramirez.

Cavazos, who will be appearing 12 days before his 28th birthday, drew the ire of the fans and became controversial earlier this season because of lackadaisical work. He atoned for that his next time out.

Ramos, 25, of Mexico City has created some of the most outstanding toil on the Tijuana sands this summer. He has won only one ear, but he has presented 4 excellent faenas to his 4 foes.

Silveti, 22, of Salamanca, state of Guanajuato, in 2 appearances has established himself as a future star of Mexican bullfighting.

The 22,000-seat Plaza Monumental, adorned by murals and bronzes statues, is one of the most beautiful and most comfortable bullrings in the world. It is owned by retired army major Salvador Lopez Hurtado, who opened it on July 26, 1960.

Tickets are available at Ticketron outlets.

Oske Seeks 3rd Straight At SB Oval

4-time California Racing Assn. champion Jimmie Oske will be shooting for his 3rd straight victory Friday night when sprint cars make their 4th appearance at South Bay Park's Speedway 117.

The Downey veteran went wire-to-wire on June 17 but took the July 15 30-lapper by passing the pacesetter Rick Goudy of Cerritos on the last lap.

Promoter Don Basile said he anticipates a good turnout of local sprinters. The program starts with time trials on the half-mile dirt oval at 7 and a trophy dash at 8. This is a one-time departure from the usual Saturday night date because of a doubleheader show being conducted by the super and street stockers which are scheduled for Saturday.

Included among the San Diego-area entrants are Mike Robison of Spring Valley, who drives his dad's Chevy-powered car; Rich Stevens of San Diego in the Judi Kinsey Special; Jim Castle of La Mesa in Jim Cochrane's car; Leonard Lee of Spring Valley in Omar Lee's Butcher Shop Special; Bobby Lean of El Cajon in Les Crawford's Chevy

'Clippers' - S.D.'s New Hoop Team

San Diego's new National Basketball Assn. team now has a nickname—the San Diego Clippers!

Clippers was the winning selection from nearly 700 different names submitted by fans in the 'Name the Team' contest, which concluded August 1.

Irv Levin, president of the club said, "We feel that Clippers is a name which best exemplifies San Diego. We thank all of our fans who participated in this contest. The interest was phenomenal."

Frank Kowalski of San Diego submitted the winning entry. Kowalski, 41, lives at 7408 Cowles Mt. Blvd. with his wife Mary and 3 children.

His winning entry read, "Clippers—a fast, slender sailing ship designed for speed! Tall masts... Clippers mean speed, strength and height, all associated with basketball. There is local, community identity..."

For naming the team, and giving the best explanation, Kowalski will receive two season tickets for the 1978-79 season and an all-expense paid trip with the team to the Bay Area to see them play the Golden State Warriors.

Finsterhall, Sinor's Jackrabbit, Visits San Diego Zoo in New Book

By Max Goodwin
John Sinor, who writes a splendid daily column for the San Diego EVENING TRIBUNE, in his newest book takes his imaginary jackrabbit, Finsterhall, out of his San Pasqual birthplace.

Where to? The S.D. Zoo. Where else?

Perhaps the trip was just in time because Finsterhall is destined to become world famous and would have been immediately recognized anywhere before long. He is to be featured in a Disney film based on Sinor's first Finsterhall book, FINSTERHALL OF SAN PASQUAL.

In Sinor's new book, FINSTERHALL GOES OVER THE WALL, the amiable little jackrabbit talks his not-too-bright cousin, Joe, into breaking out of the Animal Park in San Pasqual by way of a mail truck which commutes regularly between the Park and the S.D. Zoo.

Sinor's story line is an inspired one. As the fugitive jackrabbits alternate between hiding and getting acquainted with the inhabitants of the Zoo, the Zoo's history and operation is revealed allowing the reader to learn a lot about the facility. But don't tell the kids. Let them enjoy the story and get some zoological knowledge in the process.

Drama is introduced early in the story when Joe disappears. Finsterhall encourages his newly found bird and animal friends to aid in the search for his cousin.

With a 55-year old Salmon Crested Cockatoo as his mentor and a sparrow as his guide, he learns a lot about lions, tigers, tarsiers, monkeys, apes, koalas, echidna, foxes, badgers, horned goats and lemurs.

He even made the acquaintance of the crusty, crotchety marsupial named the Tasmanian Devil in his continuing search. Meanwhile, Joe, exhausted, found comfort in a small cushioned room. Was he surprised—as were operators when it turned out to be a Zoo's Skyfari car. He was caught for the first time in his life. But his captors were careful, sympathetic Zoo employees who took Joe to a nearby animal compound.

Finsterhall at that very moment was asking help from a noisy gibbon who screamed a message into the night air asking all Zoo animals to be on the lookout for Joe.

The word came back by the animal grapevine the next morning. Joe was in the Children's Zoo. The two cousins were together again.

With the aid of other animals they found their way back to the mail truck just as it was about to leave for the Wild Animal Park. Soon they were on their way. Amid the letters on the mail truck Finsterhall found a postcard addressed to him. It was a greeting card from his newly-found friend, the grouchy, snarling Tasmanian Devil.

The book is illustrated by Chuck Beebe whose drawings add to the attractiveness of the book. Beebe is an artist with the EVENING TRIBUNE.

The book is available from Joyce Press and better book stores in San Diego.

Is It True Finnish Sheep Have More Fun?

New lamb production factories are beginning to catch the eye of California's sheepmen. Just like the older models, they run primarily on grass, but they are more efficient, turning out more lambs in a shorter time. In fact, their offspring are often referred to as litters, just like those of some of the more prolific animal species.

This new, improved model is the Finnish Landrace sheep, a relative newcomer to the United States that was imported just 10 years ago for research purposes. Now, these sheep are finding their way into commercial flocks because they produce a lot of lambs per ewe. Purebred Finnish Landrace sheep raised under good management conditions average 2.5 to 3 births per ewe.

"The infusion of the right proportion of Finnish Landrace inheritance into the commercial ewe flock will increase flock productivity and profitability more than any other practice readily available to

PSA, United Combine Several Air Services

Pacific Southwest Airlines (PSA) and United Airlines have signed a joint agreement to provide passenger interline services effective immediately, according to William R. Shimp, president and chief executive officer.

The agreement will provide passengers with complete interline services including single ticketing, automatic baggage transfer and joint fare between United, the nation's largest airline, and PSA, the world's largest intrastate carrier.

PSA is currently providing interline services with TWA and American Airlines.

the sheep producer," said G. E. Bradford, University of California animal scientist who has been studying the Finnsheep since 1969.

Research by Bradford and UC Animal scientist D. T. Torell at the Hopland Field Station indicates that ewes with 1/4 Finnsheep inheritance do best under the sometimes harsh Western rangeland conditions.

"Purebred Finnsheep are not very hardy animals. Ewes with 1/2 Finnsheep inheritance do well under good feed and management conditions, but the 1/4 Finnsheep ewe does best under rangeland conditions such as those at our Hopland Field Station," explained Bradford. "Ewes with 1/4 Finnsheep inheritance survive at least as well as the standard whiteface ewe and will wean 20 percent more lambs than their standard whiteface counterparts."

The researchers also have found that the Finnsheep have some disadvantages when compared with commercial domestic breeds—lambs from ewes with more than 1/4 Finnsheep inheritance don't grade as well, the Finnsheep don't produce as much wool, and they breed later in the summer.

"However, the number of lambs weaned exerts much more influence on the profitability of a sheep enterprise than does any of the factors in which Finns are inferior," says Bradford.

Kids MUST Have Shots Before Starting School

Mecauses of a new state law, local public health officials are urging parents of school-age children to be certain their youngsters are adequately immunized before attending school this fall.

The new law, known as the Rains Bill, provides for the exclusion from school of children who do not meet immunization requirements. Exceptions will be made for medical reasons or personal beliefs.

"We are urging all parents to have their physician or usual source of medical care review their children's immunization records to be certain they comply," said Dr. John R. Philip, county director of public health. "By doing so, they will avoid any unnecessary delay in their children's school entry."

"More importantly, they will be assured that their children are adequately protected against the common childhood diseases which still cause serious health problems among our young people today."

Children who do not meet immunization requirements will be admitted on a conditional basis and must receive the first doses of appropriate vaccines no later than 10 school days after admission or face exclusion.

"Immunization against childhood diseases can and should begin during the first year of life," Philip said, "so that youngsters are protected long before they enter school. They need early protection because they are just as vulnerable before school entry as after."

Immunization may be obtained from a physician or at a public health center, listed in the telephone directory under San Diego County, Health Department. There is no charge at public health immunization clinics.

'Summer of Stars' Concerts To Feature Diahann Carroll

The San Diego Symphony's "Summer of Stars" this weekend will feature Diahann Carroll narrating "Scheherazade," Tomorrow's performance will start at 8 p.m. in San Diego State University's Open-Air Theatre. Sunday the concert begins at 5:30 p.m. on the UCSD-La Jolla Campus.

The "Scheherazade" narration was adapted by William Adams from "The Book of the Thousand Nights and a Night" for the Rimsky-Korsakov "Scheherazade Symphonic Suite" presentation by the San Diego Symphony, conducted by Charles Ketcham with Diahann Carroll as storyteller.

Diahann Carroll began her professional career as a supper-club entertainer and Broadway performer and immediately became known as a personality with the ability to take a live audience and make it her own. In her mid-teens, Miss Carroll was already a show-stopper, having won first prize on television's "Chance of a Lifetime," the highly-successful vehicle for bringing new talent to the public.

While studying at N.Y.U., Miss Carroll was also enrolled as an acting student with the master theatrical coach, Lee Strasberg. A native New Yorker, she made her Broadway debut with Pearl Bailey in composer Harold Arlen's "House of Flowers," and enjoys the distinction of having the Broadway show "No Strings" written especially for her by the great American composer Richard Rodgers. Her performance earned her the coveted Antionette Perry Tony Award.

For her appearances as a nightclub attraction in every major club in the United States and abroad, Miss Carroll was accorded high tribute when Cue, the popular entertainment magazine, presented her its first "Entertainer of the Year" award.

Miss Carroll's motion-picture career began with the film "Paris Blues." She also appeared in such films as "Porgy and Bess," "The Split" and "Hurry, Sundown."

In 1968, she emerged as a television performer when she became the first black person to star in her own television series, "Julia." The show aired for three seasons, hitting the top of the Nielsen ratings and receiving an Emmy nomination during its first year on the air.

In 1974, Miss Carroll returned again to the motion-picture industry when she starred in "Claudine," an inner city love story in which she played the role of a welfare mother with 6 children. For this performance she became one of only 4 black women in the history of the motion-picture industry to be nominated for an Academy Award as "Best Actress."

Gil Johnson Names Aids For Court Race

Former San Diego City Councilman Gil Johnson and two former San Diego Bar Association presidents have accepted major posts in Judge David M. Gill's campaign for Superior Court.

Johnson serves as the campaign's finance chairman. Former Bar Assn. presidents John L. Newburn and Maurice T. Watson are serving as treasurer and campaign co-ordinator, respectively.

Gill has also named 3 area chairmen to head his election drive in the major geographic areas of the county.

Jim Snapp, former mayor of El Cajon, East County chairman; Vincent Whelen, a partner in the law firm of Higgs, Fletcher & Mack, South Bay chairman, and Elmer Glaser, Chairman of the Board of West Coast National Bank and owner of Elm's Clothing Store in Oceanside, North County chairman.

Art Contest Set

All artists residing in San Diego County are invited to participate in the 28th Annual Art Exhibition of the San Diego Art Institute Gallery.

Entry deadline for art work in oil, watercolor, graphics, photography and sculpture will be October 23, 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., and October 24, 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Cash prizes up to $1,800 and purchase selections of up to $3,600 will be offered. The exhibition will be judged by Hans Burhardt and Sol Bernstein, both of Los Angeles.

The San Diego Art Institute is located at 1449 El Prado, Balboa Park and open for membership to all area artists.

Members may submit one work monthly to a juried exhibition and three works regularly to the "Little Gallery." Classes and workshops are held in the institute's upstairs studio, and special programs are offered monthly.

Eating Many Plants Dangerous, Says Poison Information Center

Please don't eat the daisies... or the night-blooming jasmine... or even the eggplant vines. For while the daisies may not harm you, the jasmine and the eggplant vine can be hazardous to your health, according to the Regional Poison Information Center at University Hospital.

Many common wild and cultivated plants contain solanine and/or belladonna alkaloids and can cause varying degrees of toxicity when eaten.

Those common plants containing belladonna alkaloids include Jimson weed, Jamestown weed, stramonium, thornapple, deadly trumpet, henbane, deadly nightshade, and willow-leaved night-blooming, and day-blooming jasmine.

Symptoms of poisoning will appear rapidly following ingestion of any of these plants. Severe toxicity or death in humans has been directly attributed to deadly nightshade, jimson weed, henbane, and the three jasmine species, according to Dr. Anthony Manoguerra, director for professional services, Poison Information Center.

Among common plants which contain solanine are the matrimony vine, tomato vines and suckers, European bittersweet, climbing nightshade, black willow-leaved, night-blooming, nightshade, Jerusalem cherry, the sprouts, green tubers or peelings of potato vines, and eggplant vines. In the case of plants containing only solanine, symptoms may be delayed 12 to 24 hours.

Intensity of symptoms may vary. However, if it is suspected that any portion of one of these plants has been eaten, immediate contact with your physician is advised. Further information is available from the San Diego County Poison Information Center at 294-6000. The Center is open 24 hours a day.

Commission to Oversee Avocado Sales, Promotion

As a result of legislation introduced by Assemblyman Tom Suitt and signed into law by Governor Brown last year, the California Avocado Commission will be established to handle advertising, promotion, and marketing research programs relating to the sale of avocados.

The establishment of the commission was approved in a producer referendum conducted by the State Department of Food and Agriculture between April 14 and May 15 this year. According to Department Director Richard E. Rominger, the new commission will be operative tomorrow.

Rominger said the tabulation of the referendum vote revealed that more than 56 percent of the state's 6,437 eligible avocado producers participated and that those who voted marketed nearly 79 percent of all avocados sold during the last season. More than 74 percent of those voting, representing 83 percent of the avocados marketed last season by referendum participants, voted for the commission.

Rominger added that the legislation authorizing the commission also authorizes it to levy an assessment on all avocado producers to carry out its programs.

17 Percent Raise In BoA Net Income

BankAmerica Corp. reports a 27.1 per cent increase in both consolidated income before securities transactions and in net income for the second quarter of 1978, to $118.3 million from $93.1 million a year ago.

Per share income before securities transactions and net income per share were both $0.81, up 26.6 per cent from .64 cents in the second quarter of last year.

For the first six months of 1978, consolidated income before securities transactions was up 25.5 per cent to $220.8 million, from $175.9 million a year ago. Net income for the period was $220.8 million, an increase of 25.4 per cent from $176.6 million in 1977.

On a per share basis, both income before securities transactions and net income for the month period were $1.51, up 24.8 per cent from $1.21 in 1977.

Kaiser Offers Outpatient Care

Members of the Kaiser Foundation Health Plan can now obtain outpatient care at Kaiser-Permanente's new Medical Offices building at 7060 Clairemont Mesa Blvd. The 6-story structure is just east of Interstate 805.

"Opening the new outpatient clinic will improve access to care for our members," says Medical Offices Administrator Conrad Cristofulli. "At the same time, expanding some services will help us keep pace with membership growth in the area."

There are approximately 200,000 Kaiser Health Plan members in the San Diego area.

Health care services at Clairemont Mesa will phase in over a period of months, with portions of the Family Practice Department, which will also continue offering services in Medical Offices at 8010 Parkway Dr., La Mesa.

Other departments expanding or relocating to the new clinic building soon are: the entire Health Appraisal Dept. and portions of Internal Medicine; portions of Pediatrics, Optometry, and Eyeglass Dispensing; the Dermatology and Allergy Departments.

2378 Traffic Deaths In First Half of '78

Traffic fatalities in California totaled 2378 during the first six months of 1978, an increase of 238 over the same period last year.

"The uptrend can be traced in part to increased traffic, since mileage continues to exceed 1977 figures by six percent or more. But slipping speed compliance certainly has an effect as well," Department of California Highway Patrol Commissioner Glen Craig said.

Craig said the first week of July, which included the Independence Day holiday, recorded 128 deaths, a record for the July 1-7 period.

VA Work-Study Jobs To Be Increased

Full-time veterans who foresee money problems at fall enrollment time should look into the Veterans Administration's work-study program.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Max Cleland recognized that the new GI Bill payment procedures might leave students who don't have savings from summer jobs in a bind to pay necessary enrollment and subsistence expenses. To help offset this financial headache, he has directed that more VA work-study jobs be made available.

GI Bill students can work up to 250 hours per semester for VA and receive $2.65 per hour, in addition to their usual education assistance allowances. An advance of up to $265 is available as soon as the employment agreement is processed. The advance covers the first 100 hours of work.

Jobs are available for VA-related work on a given campus or at a VA facility. Priority is established on the basis of service-connected disability, financial need, motivation, and the nature of the work. After the first 100 hours, VA pays work-study students after each 50 hours of work.

Contact your campus veterans counselors or the VA office in Mission Valley. Telephone 297-8220 or toll-free at 1-800-532-3811.

Food Surplus for Needy

The law states that "it is unlawful to destroy any fowl, animal, vegetable, or other stuff, product or article which is customary food, or proper for food for human beings and is in fit sanitary condition to be used as such, if done in restraint of trade."

110 agencies in the San Diego area are supplied with food from Neighborhood House which receives it from church groups, schools, businesses, large grocery organizations and private individuals. The organization also accepts donated toys, clothing, bedding and household goods. Donated food is inspected before distribution and the center's screening process assures that the food is not distributed to people able to purchase it.

Neighborhood House is located at 420 Third Ave., San Diego. The number is 235-6721. Donations are tax-deductible.

Ask Your C.H.P.

C.H.P. Capt. C. M. Douglas

Last time Capt. Douglas discussed auto theft statistics and prevention.

If you have a question, no matter how insignificant it may appear to you, ask it. It might save your life — or at least save you a citation.

Address your questions to this newspaper and allow several weeks for your question to appear.

This week's question: "Recently I've noticed signal lights on the on-ramps to State Route 94. What is the purpose of these lights?"

Capt. Douglas' answer:

These lights are referred to as metered ramps and their purpose is to regulate the number of vehicles entering the freeway so as to limit the flow to alleviate bottlenecks and the stop-and-go traffic situations.

Almost every freeway in Los Angeles is metered. In San Diego County, State Route 94 is metered along with Interstate 8 at the College Avenue and westbound Waring road on-ramps.

The system is controlled by a small computer within the traffic light standard. This computer measures the flow of traffic on the freeway and then allows either one or two cars per green light to enter the freeway.

In short, the metering system measures the traffic flow at several points and when traffic is at maximum capacity the light is red until an opening occurs.

This system will only delay on-ramp traffic a few seconds, but once on the freeway time will be saved because of the decrease in bottlenecks. The theory behind the system is that the average motorist in rush hour traffic is hesitant about allowing 6 or 7 vehicles to merge in front of him from an on-ramp, causing indecision and thus resulting in bottlenecks.

However, when one or two cars are attempting to merge from an on-ramp, the traffic already on the freeway is willing to allow the merge which can be done much more smoothly and usually without causing any interruption in the traffic flow.

CALTRANS has added a new concept to the metering system called the "high-occupancy vehicle". This is where an additional by-pass on-ramp lane is provided for vehicles with 2 or more occupants. The metered signal is slightly quicker for the by-pass lane.

Currently the by-pass lanes are located at the southbound Spring street on-ramp to westbound State Route 94 and at the connecting road from westbound 94 to westbound 94 over Spring street. Also the College Grove way and Kelton on-ramps have by-pass lanes.

The metered signals will be enforced by the CHP in the same manner as any other traffic signal.

County Schools Chief Dixon Steps Down

San Diego County Superintendent of Schools M. Ted Dixon has announced he will leave his position at the end of his present four-year term which expires at 12 noon on Jan. 8, 1979.

He notified the San Diego County Board of Education July 18 that for personal reasons he did not wish to be reappointed for another term as the leader of San Diego County schools.

Dixon has completed 25 years of service as a school administrator in the county. He spent 13 years as associate superintendent in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District and 2½ years as superintendent of Cajon Valley School District. At the end of his present term he will have completed 10 years as county superintendent of schools.

SDG&E To Test-Monitor Major Appliance Usage

San Diego Gas & Electric has begun installing system electronic equipment at the homes of customer volunteers participating in a test electric load deferment program.

The two-year test program, aimed at reducing the use of electricity during periods of peak consumption, will start in October and will involve 740 customers in the Lake Murray-El Cajon area.

Two major studies are included in the test program. The first will be to determine the effectiveness of a two-way power line communications and control system for automatically deferring the use of major electric appliances. The second will be to determine the effectiveness of time-of-day rate inducements as a means of cutting electric consumption during high use periods.

The two-way power line communications and control system will carry electronic signals between the customers and a computer control center through one of two company substations in the El Cajon-Lake Murray area.

The system will enable the company to read customer meters automatically from the computer control center, monitor usage of electricity for water heaters, air conditioners and space heaters and automatically defer usage of those appliances from peak consumption periods to off-peak periods.

SDG&E said installation of equipment for all of the participating customers will take about three months. Equipment will be activated as it is installed, but will be used only periodically for testing and monitoring until the program is started in October.

Special rates approved by the California Public Utilities Commission will be offered to customers participating in the load deferment program. Another set of incentive rates for time-of-day usage will be offered to customers participating in the second part of the program.

SDG&E is conducting the program in cooperation with the Public Utilities Commission, the Energy Commission and the Department of Energy.

The company said that if automated load deferment were used on a system-wide basis to spread the use of electricity more evenly throughout the day, it would permit the company to better use its generating facilities and might permit it to delay adding some new generating capacity.

Education Gets License Plate Funds

Ever wonder where the money goes from the sale of personalized license plates?

Part of the money collected — some $300,000 each year — goes to education, and the San Diego County Department of Education will be receiving its share for "Decisions 2000 — Phase II," a community project aimed at environmental and energy education in county schools.

County Superintendent of Schools M. Ted Dixon said the $21,995 will be used for inservice training of county teachers using materials developed in Phase I of the project.

In the project's initial phase, the department, under the direction of Project Director John Gessel, developed four multi-media modules on the environment. The land module is currently being used in classrooms, while the water, wildlife and air modules are in the last production stages, Gessel said.

Each module features film strips, cassette narration, teacher guides, study prints, charts and other instructional material. The community participated in development of the materials, a prerequisite for the grant.

Phase II will concentrate on teacher inservice and energy education, Gessel said. Inservice will include a materials fair in October and a series of workshops.

Eligibility Guidelines Changed For Free Milk, Meal Programs

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has increased by 5.56% the family income guidelines for determining the eligibility of children to participate in Child Nutrition Programs. The new rules allow a participating family of four to earn up to $6,490—$400 more than under the previous guidelines.

"Each year we adjust the income guidelines for these programs to reflect changes in the cost of living," said Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman. The new income guidelines, effective July 1, 1978 through June 30, 1979 reflect the increase in the Consumer Price Index from April 1977 through April 1978.

Based on the national income guidelines, each state issues rules which schools and institutions use in determining if children are eligible for free or reduced price meals or free milk. States are required to set the eligibility level for reduced price meals at 95 percent above the national income guidelines. When establishing eligibility standards for free meals and milk, states may place the cut-off level at up to 25 percent above the national guidelines.

The guidelines take in to account both family size and income before deductions for income taxes, insurance premiums, bonds, etc. When using the guidelines, schools and institutions may consider both the family's income during the past 12 months or the family's current rate of income to determine which is the better indicator of their need to participate in Child Food Programs.

When evaluating a family's income level, local administrators may also allow for hardship situations such as unusually high medical expenses, housing costs which exceed 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to a child's physical or mental condition, and disaster or casualty losses. Children whose parents become unemployed shall be eligible for free or reduced price meals or free milk during the period of unemployment if the income loss causes the family income to fall within the local school or institution's income eligibility criteria.

Sheriff's Academy Has 4 Local Grads

Deputy Sheriff Howard F. Bartholomew, Jr., and National City Policeman Gregory F. Peters, both of Spring Valley; Deputy Sheriff Cathy White and Coronado Policeman Arthur L. Gear, III, both of Lemon Grove, are among 29 students graduating August 9 from the Sheriff's Academy at Miramar College.

The academy is operated by Sheriff John Duffy as a regional law enforcement college. Graduates began the 16-week course March 24 and will receive 18 college units from Miramar College.

Graduation ceremonies will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the San Diego Gas & Electric Auditorium, 101 Ash St.

Tax Bills Required For Seniors' Break

The Franchise Tax Board reminds older homeowners that they must include property tax bills with their claims for Senior Citizens Property Tax Postponements.

Almost half the 400 claims received since the filing period began last month are missing the required copy of the 1977-78 property tax bill, according to James Gentz, assistant executive officer.

The tax bill is necessary to support the homeowner's claim for postponement. If it isn't attached to the claim, it costs the taxpayer time and trouble and slows the processing of claims, Gentz said.

This is the second year of the program and many homeowners are postponing their taxes for the second year. Apparently they assume it is unnecessary to include the tax bill each year, Gentz observed. However, he said, the law requires a tax bill with each year's claim.

Enacted by the state legislature last year, Senior Citizens Property Tax Postponement allows older homeowners to defer payment of part or all of their property taxes. The state then reimburses the county for the lost tax revenue, places a lien on the homeowner's property and charges seven percent a year simple interest on the unpaid balance. Claimants must own and occupy their home, be 62 or older as of Dec. 21, 1978, have $21,500 or less total household income and have at least 20% equity in their home.

The filing period began May 16 and ends Dec. 31, 1978.

Senior Property Owners Missing $42 Million Aid

Senior citizen claims for property tax assistance are lagging by almost 50 percent, the Franchise Tax Board reported today.

If the trend continues, almost half the $85 million earmarked for assistance to older, low income homeowners will go unclaimed.

Only 130,000 Senior Citizen Property Tax Assistance claims have been received compared with 251,000 at this stage of the filing period last year, according to Don Whitney, manager of Senior Citizens Programs.

The department has not determined the reason for the decline but it appears that many homeowners believe the program has been terminated. This is despite the fact that claim forms and instructions were mailed in mid-June to 392,000 homeowners, including 34,000 who filed last year.

Whitney urged homeowners over 62 years of age, whose total household income is $12,000 or less, to look through the instructions mailed to them and complete the forms if they qualify. The filing deadline this year is October 2.

Refunds last year averaged $239 and this year are averaging $264 on the claims filed and processed to date, Whitney said.

New President Named On County Ed Board

Jack Port of Escondido has been named president of the San Diego County Board of Education.

He succeeded Amy Villalobos of Carlsbad who relinquished her gavel at the board's July 12 meeting.

Ray Booth of San Diego was named first vice president, with Pat Hyndman of La Mesa elected second vice president. All terms are for one year.

Port was first elected to the county board in 1963. He represents the Fourth District which includes Escondido, Vista, San Marcos and Poway. He has been a businessman in Escondido since 1947.

The five-member county board of education serves in connection with the San Diego eve-E71 1sum-r"morn-rsNho County Department of Education which is the service link between the state department of education and the county's 48 school districts. In addition to providing local districts and teachers with curriculum, instructional and business services, the department coordinates and operates vocational and counseling services, outdoor education and community service programs for county students and residents.

The county board of education meets at 11 a.m. on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month at the department of education, 6401 Linda Vista Road, San Diego.
